Test Security

It is illegal and unethical for anyone to reproduce or disclose any of the test content or cause the content to be reproduced or disclosed in any format. Test security is vital to the successful administration of the tests. All district and school personnel are responsible for ensuring the security of the individual test questions.

The responsibility to maintain the security of the test questions continues even after the test concludes. Under Ohio law, releasing any test questions or other contents of a test to students or helping students cheat in any other way may result in an invalidation of test scores, termination of employment, suspension of certificates to teach, and/or prosecution. Violations of test security provisions in the district's written procedures may be punishable by penalties specified by the district.

Test Administration Criteria

Any person administering a test must be an employee of the district and hold a license, certificate or permit issued by the Ohio Department of Education. During every administration, a test administrator who meets these criteria must be in the room at all times. This person must actively monitor students to ensure test security. If the test administrator must leave the room in which the test is being administered, another test administrator who meets the criteria must be called to be in the test room.

The ratio for testing purposes is one test administrator to 30 students in any testing room. For any group of more than 30 students, a proctor or monitor must be in the room with the test administrator. The proctor or monitor is not required to meet the criteria for administering a test. A test administrator must be in each testing room, including rooms where small groups are administered the tests or where accommodations are provided.

Actively Monitor Test Sessions

A test administrator must actively monitor the test session. This includes but is not limited to the following:

- walking around the room (the test administrator may sit at the test administrator desk for short periods but may not be involved with non-test activities listed below);
- making sure the students are taking the correct test;
- observing that students are not involved in activities that might be considered cheating;
- monitoring test completion per student;
- monitoring how much time is left in a test session and student test completion; and
- generally being involved with the test session.

These are not active monitoring behaviors:

- reviewing a test so closely that student responses are clearly examined;
- being involved with non-test administration activities such as grading papers, completing lesson plans or completing tasks on an electronic device for a non-test reason; or
- leaving the students unattended while the test is still in session.

Breaks

If students leave the room while resting is in progress, students must first get permission from the test administrator. Although it is permissible for test administrators to give students a brief break, test security must be maintained throughout the break. Students should not talk during a break.

It is preferable that only one student at a time be allowed out of the testing room. Students who wish to go to the restroom during the test must turn in all their testing materials to the test administrator prior to leaving the room. For paper testers, this includes scratch paper, test booklets, answer documents and special versions. If students are taking a test that allows the use of a handheld calculator, students must turn in their calculators before leaving the test room. For online testers, students must turn in scratch paper and handheld calculators (if applicable). Online testing students should pause their tests when taking a break.

Use of Electronic Devices (Phones or Computers)

1. Using an electronic device for personal use during the testing session is grounds for immediate testing invalidation and may be grounds for disciplinary action by the school district. The materials must be secured in their book bags or lockers. Electronic devices are NOT allowed in the testing area with the exception of the test administrator who may use the device for the following reasons: medical and technological emergencies, to use as a time-keeper or to otherwise perform necessary test-related actions. Test administrators must not use the cell phone for non-test related issues or personal issues. Test administrators must NEVER take photographs of students, tests, computers or the testing room during testing.
2. No checking emails on the computers or being on any site other than testing website (if applicable). Student and faculty use of electronic devices for personal reasons is not permitted until ALL tests have been completed and the test administrator has ended the testing session.

Security Violations

The following are security violations, which will need to be discussed with the department as soon as the alleged violation is known; see the inside front cover of this manual for contact information. This is not an exhaustive list.

Before or during a test administration

- Reviewing a test booklet or a student's answer document to review test content or student responses;
- Using a student's login information to access an online test in order to review the test content;
- Reviewing the test and creating a study guide or in some way releasing the test questions to students;
- Describing the test questions in an email, or discussing the test questions with anyone;
- Standing over a student who is taking the test and indicating in some manner that the student's answer is incorrect, blank or deficient;

- Coaching a student in any manner to indicate the correct answer or any answer;
- Posting any portion of the test content and/or a student response on social media before, during or after the test administration.

After the administration

- Marking, tampering with or contaminating a student's responses in any way, unless by a scribe or test administrator with permission to transcribe the student's responses with no changes;
- Failing to collect and securely shred any scratch paper that was provided to and used by students during a test and that contains student writing;
- Failing to account for and return any secure paper test materials;
- Discussing test questions with colleagues or students after the test has been administered, which may affect students who are tested on a later day;
- Describing the test questions in an email or discussing the test questions with anyone.

At any point, if personnel believe that a violation of test security has occurred, he or she should contact the building test coordinator about the alleged test security violation. The building test coordinator should report the alleged security violation to the district test coordinator. The district test coordinator will contact the department to discuss the situation. Information on reporting test incidents to the department is available in the Ohio Statewide Assessment Rules Book at education.ohio.gov and searching the following keywords: rules book.

After Testing Policy

All students, including those students who finish early, will stay in the testing room for the duration of the administration. Generic silent work will be on-hand for students. The silent work must not be related to the subject matter being tested.
